

Burkina Faso Industrial Energy Storage Vehicle

Overview

Does Burkina Faso have an electric vehicle?

Burkina Faso has launched its locally manufactured electric vehicle (EV) called the ITAOUA. Introduced early this year, this bold initiative promotes sustainable development, improves mobility, and strengthens national self-reliance. A Homegrown Technological Milestone.

How does the itaoua support Burkina Faso?

The ITAOUA supports Burkina Faso's broader vision of sustainable transportation and clean energy leadership. By investing in local manufacturing and renewable technologies, the country positions itself as a front runner in eco-friendly mobility across Africa.

What is itaoua – Burkina Faso?

A Homegrown Technological Milestone The ITAOUA, named after a village in Tanghin-Dassouri, Kadiogo Province, reflects Burkina Faso's innovation and cultural identity. Engineers design and assemble the vehicle in Ouaga, one of the districts in the capital, Ouagadougou.
