Will trump end a $7 billion solar program?

The Trump Administration says it will end a $7 billion program to help low-income households and communities get access to affordable solar energy. The move is part of President Trump's effort to reverse former President Biden's climate agenda and boost fossil fuels instead.

Why did the EPA terminate a $7 billion solar grant program?

By ALEXA ST. JOHN and MATTHEW DALY WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency on Thursday terminated a $7 billion grant program intended to help pay for residential solar projects for more than 900,000 lower-income U.S. households, in the latest Trump administration move hindering the nation's shift to cleaner energy.

What if the Solar for all program was finalized?

If finalized, the move would escalate the Trump administration's efforts to claw back billions of dollars in climate grants awarded under President Biden. The Solar for All program was designed to help low- and moderate-income homeowners install solar panels and also to expand community solar initiatives. Bobby Altman for The New York Times.

What happened to the Solar for all program?

The government just made $7 billion in funding available again through the Solar for All program, which helps cover the cost of solar power for people in low-income communities. EnergySage reported that the program had been frozen earlier this year after an order from President Trump, but it's finally back — and nobody knows for how long.

Will solar for all save us taxpayers another $7 billion?

“Today, the Trump EPA is announcing that we are ending Solar for All for good, saving US taxpayers ANOTHER $7 BILLION!” Sen. Bernie Sanders, I-Vt, who introduced the Solar for All program to cut electric bills for working families, said Zeldin’s action was illegal.
